A Widow in the Next County

Who has achieved the reputation of running her farm "as good as any man" comes out strongly in favor of American Fence.

She says that before she put up American Fence there was always trouble at some position of her land—a place where stock had broken through or the wind had blown down a section. The fence would rust from rain or snap from frost.

Since adopting American Fence

she has had none of these troubles.

This is only another example of the fact that it pays to buy the best—especially when the best is no higher priced than the poorer kinds—and is so much cheaper in the long run.

American Fence

In styles and weights for all purposes, is sold by

Improving Wheat Varieties.

A good milling wheat should be fairly hard and the grains uniform in hardness, color, size and shape. Such wheat will make the largest percentage of high grade flour and will command the highest prices.

The first step in producing wheat having these qualities is to procure a variety which, in addition to yielding heavily and having the necessary stiffness of straw to stand up well, has the required hardness of grain to be acceptable for milling purposes. There is considerable variation among different varieties in this respect, and the reader is referred to Bulletin No. 155 of this Station for a discussion of the relative values of our most common varieties.

After the variety is secured, maintaining the uniformity of grain is largely a question of keeping the variety pure. It is manifestly impossible to have uniformity where there is a mixture of varieties, for the grain of different varieties of wheat differs in character. Wheat is practically a self-fertilized plant, and crossing between varieties will not occur to any appreciable extent; even under the most favorable conditions for such crossing. Thus mixing of varieties is due almost entirely to mechanical means. The traveling threshing outfit is the chief factor concerned in this, because considerable quantities of grain are carried from one farm to another in the separators. No matter how pure a variety is to begin with, it will become mixed in a few years unless extraordinary precautions are taken to prevent it. As a result it is almost impossible to find a variety of wheat absolutely free from admixtures of other varieties.

The plan described below is one which has been found entirely practical and efficient in producing pure seed wheat. In addition, it is wheat breeding in its

I Want Your Child

—But Only to Photograph

When at ease, nothing can be more artistic and graceful than a child.

I have made a special study of photographing children; I know how to catch them when they are in easy, natural positions; when they are most graceful.

My studio is a studio for children. It is arranged for children—children like to come. Bring me your child and see what I can do with him or her, as a model.

simplest form and a variety of wheat handled in this manner is certain to maintain its excellence.

Go into the field of ripe wheat with a basket and select enough of the best heads, true to the variety, to make sufficient grain to plant an acre or so the next fall. The amount selected will, of course, vary with the wheat acreage on the farm. Carefully dry and thresh by hand. In the fall treat for smut as described in Bulletin No. 155 and plant on the best of the wheat land. Take precautions to keep from mixing when harvested, and thresh after the main crop is threshed, discarding the first bushel or so, as it contains some wheat from the previously threshed crop. This wheat should be absolutely pure and will furnish sufficient seed to plant the main crop the next fall.

For the farmer who wishes to sell seed wheat which he can guarantee to be absolutely pure, it will be well to repeat this selection each year, although if practiced every two or three years the variety should become but slightly mixed if care is taken to set aside the first few bushels when beginning the threshing.

Another method of keeping a variety pure, which may be more easily followed, is to go over a small plot in the general field and carefully cut out all the heads of foreign varieties. Cut and thresh the wheat from this plot by hand and use for the seed plot as in case of the head selection described above. It is advised not to attempt growing too many varieties on a farm, as this greatly increases the difficulty of keeping each pure. It is better to find the best variety and endeavor to keep it pure and improve it in other ways.

Teachers, Madison County.

I have arranged with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad for a grand three days Teachers' Trip to Mammoth Cave from Madison county, June 19th. I am anxious for all our teachers in the county to see this great subterranean wonder, and have made all my arrangements to go with the teachers and their friends in person. The cost of the trip including the railroad fare, board at cave hotel and the several routes through the cave for $12.15. A special program has been provided by the cave management to give a display of five works in the ruins, which will surpass anything ever seen under ground. A special coach has been provided to leave Richmond, Wednesday, June 19th, on regular train 7:20 a. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens who wish to join on this outing.

Stops Scalp Itch

Dandruff and Every Form of Scalp Disease Cured Quick by Zemo.

It is simply wonderful how Zemo goes after dandruff. You rub a little of it in with tips of the fingers. It gets right down into the glands, stimulates them, stops the itch, and makes the head feel fine. No, it isn't sticky! Zemo is a fine, clear, vanishing liquid. You don't have to even wash your hands after using Zemo. And what a wonder it is for eczema, rash, pimples and all skin afflictions. A 25-cent trial bottle at Perry's Drug Store, is guaranteed to stop any skin irritation.

Zemo is prepared by E.W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., and is regularly sold by druggists at $1 a bottle. But to prove what it will do at trifling expense, Zemo is now put up in 25-cent trial bottles.

Nearly Always This Way.

"Dear sir," wrote the mail-order man to the farmer who had answered his advertisement, "your favor of recent date received, and I beg to acknowledge receipt of the two-bills which you kindly enclosed."

"By this same mail I am sending you, as agreed, one of our patent coat hangers. You will, I am sure, find it all we claim—neat, sensible, simple, practical. No parts to be put on or taken off. A hammer is all that is needed to attach permanently to any post or wall."

In due time the farmer received the letter—and in a separate package one two-inch wire nail.
